I've got a php page which sends a json variable and it returns a string. I'm trying to get that into a div in html. php $exercise = '{"exercise": 1, "exercise2": 4}'; echo json_encode($exercise); html var ex=jQuery.parseJSON(exercise); But it doesn't seem to work. Can someone point out what I'm doing wrong, and would it be better to send json from php using ajax? Thanks! A: This is a problem: //var ex=jQuery.parseJSON(exercise); var ex=jQuery.parseJSON($("exercise").html()); In your code, you are writing the json directly into the DOM, which is not possible. // Here is your solution $(document).ready(function(){ $("#get-exercise").click(function() { // Append the exercise to the div, // to make it easier for you, we will use an object var exercise = { exercise: 1, exercise2: 4 }; var myJson = JSON.stringify(exercise);

To better understand the effects of the therapeutic modalities used in the treatment of stage IV non-small-cell lung cancer (NSCLC) on the outcome of that patient population. Between 1973 and 1992, 1,050 patients with stage IV NSCLC were treated with curative (no residual disease) intent. The number of locoregional therapies (TLX) increased during the period of the study, but there were no changes in the number of patients receiving systemic therapy for stage IV NSCLC. The median survival duration was 9 months for patients receiving systemic treatment and 23 months for patients who underwent TLX. The total number of cycles of systemic therapy was correlated with survival duration for patients receiving chemotherapy ($p = 0.0001$), whereas the total number of cycles of radiation therapy ($p = 0.1235$) and the number of chemo/radiation cycles administered in combination ($p = 0.1235$) did not correlate with survival duration. Patients treated with radiation therapy ($p = 0.0019$) or any combination of radiation and chemotherapy ($p = 0.0055$) had better survival. In multivariate analysis, the parameters found to be significantly associated with survival duration were the number of chemo/radiation cycles ($p = 0.0359$) and the use of either radiation therapy ($p = 0.0055$) or combined chemoradiation ($p = 0$ 79a2804d6b
