Health-related quality of life among patients with mitral regurgitation: A cross-sectional and multivariate analysis. Mitral regurgitation (MR) is a potentially severe valvular heart disease that is associated with significant morbidity and mortality. However, not many studies have investigated the potential influence of MR on the health-related quality of life (HRQOL). The purpose of this study was to determine how the presence of MR is associated with worse HRQOL in patients with moderate to severe mitral stenosis. The cross-sectional study involved 216 patients (99 women and 117 men) with moderate or severe mitral stenosis and moderate to severe MR who underwent transesophageal echocardiography. The mitral valve area (MVA) was estimated as the minimum diameter that subtended the smallest diameter of the mitral orifice during diastole. Patients were grouped according to the severity of MR and the estimated MVA (group A: MVA 1.8 cm<sup>2</sup>). HRQOL was assessed using the Medical Out

What's new:

these are the words you will read inside on your birthday Each birthday, in my mind, was extraordinary. On my 18th birthday, my family and I traveled from Dallas to San Francisco, where we met my birth mother and found out for the first time how they met. I reconnected with my real mother for the first time. It was the first time I have ever seen color, and my first chihuahua. I also reconnected with my number one birth father, where I reunited with my siblings, old family friends, and reconnected with my birth Aunties. On my 19th birthday, I joined a haunted house. I witnessed, through closed eyes, the undead roaming the walls and halls. I ran in terror and squealed like a pig, narrowly escaping death. This was my first time being in a school, where I witnessed my friends and classmates destroying other classmates with cell phones. I witnessed both older and younger schoolmates fighting and being arrested. On my 20th birthday, I went to Florida and witnessed the surreal beauty of Boracay Island's crystal blue ocean, and the 5 star resorts surrounded by untouched forest. I met an older Caucasian American where we talked about the mysteries of the universe. The conversation was in total English, my mode of speaking, and I barely understood a word he said. I witnessed my birth parents 50th anniversary, where I saw my birth mother crying when I failed a relationship test. On my 21st birthday, I got a broken heart, when I broke up with my ex-boyfriend. I spent a few days crying and alone. I spent most of my time researching ways to survive heartbreak. Watching movies were completely new to me, and I immediately loved it. I realized how deep my interest to fiction would deepen. I was already a Netflix addict. I watched my new favorite show, which happened to be season one of Gilmore Girls, where I reminisced about my childhood. On my birthday, I attended my 90th school party and was offered collard greens. On my 22nd birthday, I got my first introduction to YouTube. My little sister had uploaded a video called “How To Use Jukeboxes”, so I went to YouTube and watched. I was instantly infatuated with the simplicity of the interface. I began to watch videos about impressions and comedy. I spent a lot of time watching people make their own impressions of me, as well as what famous people they look like
