PDF:Q: Qt5 QPixmap pixels error I'm trying to draw on a QPixmap and I'm facing a strange issue : on 32bpp and 64bpp devices, the red color is black and the blue one is white, which is weird because the color array is good on these, it's just how these values are multiplied. I tried a lot of calculation but I'm not convinced they're right. unsigned char red = 255; unsigned char blue = 0; QRect realRect = QRect(0,0,img->width(), img->height()); for (int x=0;xwidth();x++){ for (int y=0;yheight();y++){ unsigned char *pixel = img->getPixmap().scanLine(y); pixel[x] = red; pixel[x] = blue; } } Thanks for the help! A: The values are OK, they are just multiplied by wrong values. RGB values are multiplied by $255 * 0.5 = 128$. R is multiplied by $1.0 * 255 = 255$. G is multiplied by $1.0 * 0.5 = 0.5$. B is multiplied by $0.0 * 255 = 0$. This is common when working with bitmaps. Q: Django REST API - Get by foreign key in list I have 2 models, Courses and CoursesMeta. CoursesMeta has a field that links to Courses class CoursesMeta(models.Model): class Meta: verbose_name_plural = 'Courses'
